

Media Release

NECA welcomes new Standards Australia CEO

The National Electrical and Communications Association (NECA) welcomes the appointment of Adrian O'Connell as Standards Australia's new Chief Executive Officer.

NECA CEO Suresh Manickam said Standards Australia plays a critical role in the Electrotechnology Sector and he looks forward to continuing the close working relationship NECA has with the organisation.

Suresh Manickam, CEO of NECA, said:

"I want to congratulate Mr O'Connell on his appointment as CEO of the nation's peak standards organisation.

"We have worked closely with Standards Australia over a number of years to develop standards that reflect the ever-increasing complexities of the electrotechnology and associated sectors.

"In Australia we all benefit from the robust standards we have in place that enable us to build both a sustainable environment and safe communities.

"We look forward to continuing the long-standing, collaborative relationship NECA has with Standards Australia."

ENDS

NECA media contact:

Katherine Cammuso 0410 609 443, katherine.cammuso@neca.asn.au

Notes for editors

1. NECA is the peak industry body representing the interests of electrical and communications contractors Australia-wide.
2. Membership comprises over 5,300 contracting companies with over 50,000 employees.
3. NECA provides employment and ongoing skills development for over 4,000 apprentices nationally.